Dear Mr. Kubota:

Please forgive my long delay in answering your most welcome letter of last March 30th. At the time your letter was received, my latest book had not been published, and since it was published, there have been so many demands upon me that it has been impossible for me to answer my mail as I would like.

But now, in the same mail with this letter, I am sending you as a gift my latest book INSIDE THE SPACE SHIPS. I have autographed it for you and hope you receive much joy from this book and that you will share any knowledge gained from it with your fellow countrymen.

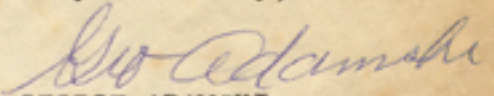

Your great offer of sacrifice in wanting to send me your two books of old Japanese philosophy, is more deeply appreciated than words can express. But I do not read Japanese nor do I have anyone who could translate them for me.

So I beg you to please keep these valuable books in your own possession, where they can be of great service to you.

I am also enclosing some photographs which I think you might like and which may prove helpful to you. I hope they serve you well.

Again, thank you sincerely for your very nice letter and with every kind wish to you.

Very sincerely,

GEORGE ADAMSKI
